POLICE CHANGES.—A change took place in the police force last night. James Kay, who has been on the night force, resigned to resume his former position at the Hotel Adams. He is succeeded by Thomas D. Malloy of the night force. Officer Malloy is succeeded by William Albright.

WILLIAMS MOVING ALONG.—G. U. Young, editor of the Williams News, was at the Hotel Adams yesterday. He says that Williams moves along with its usual progress, the smelter is built there, and the Grand Canyon road will soon be built and the mines of the canyon district worked as producers.

NEW MINING COMPANY.—Articles of incorporation of the Gold Rock Mining and Milling company were filed in the office of the county recorder yesterday. The incorporators are W. G. McGinty, O. H. Parke, W. N. Perry, William Dodge and W. M. Carpenter. They are Los Angeles people. The capital stock is $50,000.

MARIKOPA CLUB ELECTION.—The annual meeting of the members of the Marikopa club was held last night for the election of directors for the next year. The following gentlemen were chosen: Walter Talbot, H. J. Jessop, Walter Bennett, C. J. Hall, G. P. Almsworth, T. E. Dalton, T. J. Bradley and Aniel Martin.

BASE BALL SUITS.—An order was placed with W. L. Pinney yesterday for base ball suits, balls, masks and other appurtenances for the reorganized local base ball club. The suits are contributed by DeMund Bros. They are to be Spalding Inter-scholastic, of the shade known as Yale gray. The new base ball club will be stronger than any of its predecessors.

TOUGH HOBOS.—Deputy Sheriff Davenport and Constable Frank McClinton, brought in a couple of tough looking hobos, recent arrivals in town. They made their debut by stealing a ham and a section of bacon from McNulty's grocery. They were captured on the bank of a ditch beyond the M. & P. depot. They had cached their plunder and it has not been found.

CURED A SNAKE BITE.—A Mexican employed at Fowler's ranch was bitten by a five-foot rattlesnake a couple of days ago. The bite was on the hand, similar as to location to that received by M. Bourquegon and which resulted fatally. The Mexican's arm swelled rapidly, but the swelling did not extend beyond the elbow. As soon as possible after he was bitten he applied a plant known as snakeweed, a species of euphorbia and called by the Mexicans "Gelandrina." The swelling was arrested instantly and in half an hour had passed away, leaving no other marks than the punctures upon the hand inflicted by the snake's fangs.

PIMA CATTLE THIEVES.—Stockmen of southern Pima county have had for some time past reason to complain of the depredations of cattle thieves. During the summer just ended, however, the authorized inspectors of brands in that section have caused the arrest of a number of parties for the alleged offense, who have been held to the grand jury at the coming term of district court. It has been suggested in this connection that stockmen, when in doubt as to the brand on cattle and having cause to dispute the ownership of the same, could readily adjudicate the controversy between them by referring to the brand books, which has just been issued.

LIVE STOCK SALES.—Bills of sale of the following transfers of live stock have been filed in the office of the live stock sanitary board: To Will C. Barnes of Holbrook, the J.V. brand of cattle, from David Rep; the arrow brand of cattle from C. Perkins; the C brand of cattle from C. G. Bryant, who in turn, transferred them to Mr. Barnes; the lazy A brand from Bryant & Jones; To Mrs. Lucinda White of Dos Cabezas, the F. W. brand of cattle from Frank White. To John D. Boyett of Aravaipa, the bar 77 cattle from Charles W. Drew of the same place. To John D. Blevins of Navajo Springs, the AV bar brand of cattle from J. S. Doanhus of Holbrook. To M. E. Curry and A. Gibson of Payson, Gila county, the 71 bar brand of cattle, from Joe Gibson of Lehi.

THE STONE THROWER CAUGHT.—When J. W. Benham came town to business yesterday he found a large dead chicken hawk hanging to the screen door by one of its claws and a note written on the order slate something to the following effect: "Mr. Benham: See that you send this hawk to Mr. — on the Black canyon road. I killed him while he was throwing rocks at me in a mysterious manner. Clear case of self defense. Emil Marquette." Mr. Benham studied the writing for a minute and then appreciating the latent humor of the entire affair allowed the hawk and message to remain on the door for the delectation of the curious. The hawk was an unusually large one, having a spread of wings nearly six feet. To add to the realism of the alleged "mysterious" stone throwing, the donor of the hawk had placed in the disengaged claw a good sized flat pebble.

NOT AN EASY MARK.—It is surprising that anybody should take Thomas E. Flannigan for a bunco steerer. But surprising things happen in this world. Last Tuesday he was introduced to a young man whom he had never seen. The young man was going away that night and as Mr. Flannigan was also going as far as Maricopa he was asked by the mutual friend to look after the young man. Mr. Flannigan entered the train and neither saw nor thought of his charge until he had crossed the Gila. Then he went into the chair car and saw a young man who resembled in a general way the man he had met. He snatched him on the shoulder, saying: "Hello! Do you take me to take care of you." He had made a mistake. The stranger arose with an oath and said he could take care of himself. Mr. Flannigan tried to apologize and said he thought he was somebody else. "Yes, I know," replied the angry stranger, "you thought I was an easy mark. You're not the first bunco artist I've met." The more Mr. Flannigan apologized the more the stranger wanted to fight. The car by this time was in a rear. When it reached Maricopa Mr. Flannigan mingled with the crowd on the platform and escaped.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

That man Percy Scoville of the Scoville Plumbing company, 41 North First avenue, finds that it pays to advertise in The Republican. Since he began to make known the virtues of his plumbing business through the columns of this paper he has been overrun with orders. Just now every one of his employees is busy and he is wondering how he can manage to handle any new contracts. That Glendie contract mentioned in this column two days ago is being filled as rapidly as possible, but it will be a month before it is completed. Mr. Scoville has been in business but a short time, but the quality of the work turned out of him and the quality of the goods on exhibition at his place of business, coupled with the breezy advertising he is doing, serves to make him the busiest plumber in this neck of woods. When you want to see plumbing that is plumbing, inspect some of Scoville's work.

London, Oct. 5.—The Cairo correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says: "The Sirdar will become the first governor-general of the Soudan, and may hold that post for a time, but he will resign the Sirdarship."

Major Marchand was in straits when the Sirdar arrived, and was glad to receive supplies from the latter, without which he would have been compelled to quit Fashoda. Major Marchand was unable to show any authority from the French government for holding the place.

A dispatch to the Daily Mail from Cape Town says General Kitchener has cabled to Cecil Rhodes that he has established a post south of Fashoda and asks: "When are you coming up?"

PRAYERS AND THE WAR.

Professor Goldwin Smith found fault with the president's proclamation of a thanksgiving for our victories as according to indicate an opinion that God was more solicitous for our well being than that of our Spanish brethren. That seems, on the whole, rather a superficial view. For one thing, we have sincerely believed that the best thing that could happen to Spain would be to lose all her colonies, and probably Professor Smith shares that opinion. So in praying for our own success we have not been really invoking injury upon our neighbor. What our prayerfulness has meant has really been that we are a religious people who recognize our dependence on God, and are conscious that our future greatness and prosperity depend upon our ability to shape our conduct in conformity with His will. It means, too, that we are conscious that our success will help or hurt us according to our use of its results; that if we can make it tend to the promotion of righteousness we shall profit by it, and that if it results in mere selfish aggrandizement, we shall suffer. A great navy and an efficient army may make a nation successful for a time in war, but we know that in themselves they do not make it really strong. The real strength of a nation lies in its capacity to understand what is right and in its desire and ability to do it. We have all along been a great deal more sure that we could win from Spain than that we could make a wise and beneficent use of our victory. Now, therefore, that we have won and have the problems of victory to settle, our prayers should be more urgent and constant than ever. It was no great feat, with our resources, to defeat Spain, but to be just and merciful and wise in victory, and to make our success really helpful to civilization is matter difficult enough for its accomplishment to engage the spiritual cooperation of all pious minded people.

I hope our brethren who prayed for our success in war will keep on praying, and those who had scruples and didn't, may surely begin now, when there is no longer an enemy to be prayed (apparently) against, and all our effort is to heal hurts and breaches, and try to make it come about that justice and liberty shall go where we have sought to carry them.—From "The Point of View," in the October Scribner's.
